

PROFESSOR JONATHAN COOPER

Professor of Animal Behaviour and Welfare, University of Lincoln

As a subject specialist in Animal Behaviour and Welfare, Jonathan is programme leader for BSc Animal Management and Welfare at University of Lincoln, UK. Currently teaching Animal Behaviour and Animal Welfare to undergraduate students in years 1, 2 and 3, he delivers sessions in assessing welfare and control of behaviour as part of taught MSc in Clinical Animal Behaviour.

As Principle Investigator on Defra funded project into use of e-collars in dog training, he was awarded RSPCA funding to investigate space requirements of pet rabbits prior to being awarded further funds from UFAW (Universities Federation for Animal Welfare) and Waltham Foundation for rabbit welfare work.

Jonathan is also Chair of College of Science Faculty Research Degrees Board, Chair of College of Science Research Ethics Committee and a member of ASAB (The Association for the Study of Animal Behaviour) and ISAE (The International Society for Applied Ethology).

www.CAWSEL.com

@CAWSEL1
#CAWSEL17